House Supports Gasoline Tax Increase

By Robert Stewart
ALLENTOWN electrical contractor William Donmoyer, who is working on the East Stroudsburg Area Joint Junior-Senior High School building, was accused by former employees last night of not paying overtime wages and doing sub-standard work on various projects.

The meeting, held before the East Stroudsburg School Building Authority, and attended by several members of the school board and, in addition, William Doall, general contractor of Bangor, and George Wilson, president of the Building Trades Council, and business agent for the electricians local.

Wilson said his main purpose was not to have the site picketed, but to show that Donmoyer was not a responsible bidder on the job in the first place.

During the meeting Wilson introduced four former Donmoyer employees who testified before the members present that on various projects, Donmoyer paid no overtime and in addition approved the use of old equipment which should have been replaced by new equipment.

The first man to air his grievances against Donmoyer was Donald Serfass, Saylorburg, who said he had worked seven hours overtime during a Sunday and was paid three and one-half hours at a double-time rate. This, he said, made the time paid straight time.

Serfass said he was taken to Allentown on a Sunday to work and, although not told the rate he was to be paid, received the straight time pay on his next pay check.

Serfass is, according to testimony, presently on strike from the Bethlehem Steel Co. and took the job with the Donmoyer firm four weeks ago since he was receiving no income since the steel strike began 58 days ago.

Union Wage
Wilson pointed out that Serfass wasn't paid the prevailing union wage for the area as was stipulated in the 1949 School Code. The amount under the prevailing wage was seven and one-half cents per hour.

The second employee to testify was Theodore Destin, of Allentown, who said he worked many times seven days a week, was paid five days at the regular rate, double time for Saturday, and received no pay for the seventh day. This amounted to straight time pay for the seven days without regards to the overtime.

Destin said he worked on the high school at Hackettstown, N. J., as a foreman for Donmoyer, and was paid $3.75 per hour. The prevailing rate for the job, it was pointed out, was $4.35 per hour.

Destin said he traveled to the shop at Allentown to pick up material for the job, but he never received any overtime for his work. In addition, Wernman testified he also worked as a foreman and was not paid for the responsibility until several weeks ago.

U.S. Recovers Space Capsule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A one-ton Mercury type space capsule blazed hundreds of miles across the Atlantic Wednesday and was recovered northeast of Antigua eight hours later.

Scientists aboard the destroyer Strong, which fished the simulated space craft out of the water, reported it in excellent condition.

This indicated that the test flight would yield vast amounts of data required by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration before the first Mercury astronaut can be launched safely into orbit.

Robert Gilruth, director of NASA's Project Mercury, told a news conference that the firing was mainly a test of the shape and design of a space capsule, and from that standpoint was very successful.

Gilruth added although the capsule's re-entry in the earth's atmosphere was somewhat steeper than planned, it was a "very rigorous re-entry, experiencing high heat loads and high rates of deceleration," and would produce a great deal of useful information.

Furthermore, Gilruth said, it turned out to be an excellent test of the recovery operation because the capsule landed several hundred miles from the planned point of impact and far from most of the recovery facilities.

The capsule, a cone 6 feet wide at its base and 9½ feet long, tapering to a 20-inch diameter at the nose, was launched by a big Joe Atlas rocket at 2:19 a.m. EST.

It was a perfect launching. The Big Joe was modified to lift the capsule to about 100 miles, then tilt over and send the simulated space ship on a 2,000 mile flattened curve through the earth's atmosphere to a landing near Antigua.

The purpose of the flight was to study the friction heating and deceleration forces a space pilot will encounter when his capsule plows back into the atmosphere.

The 85-foot, 250,000-pound Atlas has two booster engines, each with 150,000 pounds thrust, and a main sustainer engine of 60,000 pounds thrust.

In normal liftoff the boosters drop away after firing, and the sustainer vastly accelerates the rocket as soon as the dead booster weight is shed.

Red China Blames India For Dispute

TOKYO (AP)—Red China offered Wednesday to settle its border quarrels with India through friendly negotiations. But a note from Premier Chou En-lai insisted India is to blame and demanded the withdrawal of Indian troops he said are trespassing.

Answering a letter from Indian Prime Minister Nehru—who accused the Reds Aug. 26 of aggression—Chou offered the concession of withdrawing Peiping's claims to Bhutan and Sikkim, two Himalayan buffer states squeezed in between India and Communist-controlled Tibet.

Chou's letter, dated Tuesday, was released by the Communist New China News Agency just a few hours before Tass, its Soviet counterpart, published an official Soviet statement calling on India and China to settle their problems peacefully.

Conciliatory Tone

The tone of Chou's letter was largely conciliatory. It was written only a week before the opening of the U.N. General Assembly session in New York, when India again will take the floor to plead for Chinese Communist membership in the world organization.

The Chinese Communist Premier was answering a March 22 letter from Nehru. He claimed the reason he waited so long was that he had been "somewhat surprised" to find basic differences on boundaries between New Delhi and Peiping.

Monday India released a 125-page white paper detailing correspondence on the quarrels. It showed the letters dated back at least three years.

Chou wrote Nehru that the Indians, and not the Chinese, crossed the McMahon Line. He also pointed out that China does not recognize this boundary line drawn up before World War I.

Named after Sir Arthur Henry McMahon, a British administrator, the line has been regarded by India for years as its boundary with Tibet from Bhutan to the East. But the Chinese never recognized it.

Request

Chou asked Nehru to withdraw Indian troops from territory claimed by Peiping. According to Communist maps that have angered the Indians, Peiping claims slices of the northeast frontier, Ladakh in Kashmir, Bhutan and Sikkim.

All lie close to Tibet, but the area was a bone of contention long before this spring's anti-Communist rebellion in the land of the Lamas.

The Communist Chinese Premier charged that after the Tibetan rebellion "Indian troops started pressing forward steadily across the eastern section of the Chinese-Indian boundary."

"The tense situation recently arising on the Chinese-Indian border was all caused by trespassing and provocations by Indian troops, and for this the Indian side should be held responsible," he wrote.

He charged the Indians with invading Longju, a spot in Tibet where Nehru specifically charged the Communists with aggression. The Indians were "shielding rebel bandits in this area," Chou said.

Soviet Union Urges Settlement

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Wednesday urged Red China and India to settle their border row and warned the West not to exploit the quarrel.

The carefully worded appeal, issued by the official Soviet news agency Tass, avoided taking sides, but called the border incidents deplorable. Neither of the principals was blamed.

Some Westerners were. "The two-hour session. 'Why can't we be friends as we always were?'" he asked.

Miss Bergman then turned, smiled, and gave him her hand. Miss Bergman hastened to Santa Marinella, 20 miles north of Rome, to see her children. She was laden with toys.

Shouts of welcome greeted her and again she wept. She posed briefly for photographers with her son Roberto, now 9, and the twin girls, Isotta and Ingrid Isabella, 6. There were shrieks of delight as the toys were divided.

Warnings On Bags

HARRISBURG (AP)—Warnings would have to be printed on large plastic bags which are sold or used in Pennsylvania under legislation approved by the Senate Wednesday and sent to the House.

Arrest Made In Little Rock Blasts

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A 35-year-old white truck driver was charged Wednesday with three night-time bombings which threw Little Rock into a new state of integration jitters.

Police and the FBI moved in swiftly on J. D. Sims, the father of an 11-year-old girl, Tuesday and held him overnight without disclosing his arrest.

The tall, slender truck driver was charged after his attorney was granted a writ of habeas corpus. Police and the FBI then issued a joint statement, announcing the arrest but saying nothing else.

His attorney, Amis Guthridge, is an attorney for a segregationist group. Guthridge said he did not know Sims or his wife. He said he had been retained by Mrs. Sims.

Bombs blasted the school board's administrative building, the mayor's business office and the fire chief's station wagon late Monday night, all within 30 minutes.

Both the school board and Mayor Werner C. Knopp have been criticized by segregationists over the integration of two of Little Rock's four high schools with five Negroes.

Fire Chief Gann Nalley also has been criticized for firemen's part in breaking up a segregationist march on Central High School the opening day of school Aug. 12.

Both Police Chief Gene Smith and J. J. Casper, head of the FBI in Arkansas, refused to give any details about the arrest.

Guthridge said Mrs. Sims told him she last saw her husband Tuesday afternoon when he left the home to go to a nearby store. When she went looking for him, she said a woman reported seeing Sims get into a police car.

Occupancy Tax Set By Senate

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Wednesday night completed legislative action on an administration proposal to increase the hotel occupancy tax from 3½ to 4 per cent.

The measure, lost in the shuffle when the lawmakers were pushing through the 4 per cent sales levy, went to Gov. Lawrence's desk. He is expected to sign it into law the next day or two.

Usually a companion bill to the sales levy, the House had forgotten to move it along with the big revenue-raising bill when the latter became law Aug. 20.

It will yield an additional $600,000 in the next two years.

The Senate also put off until next week two other portions of the administration's tax program.

They would extend to gas firms the 14-mill tax on gross receipts of public utilities and double the four-mill bank shares tax to raise $18,200,000 in the next two years.

Revisions Expected

Senate Republicans also were expected next week to push through some changes in the 4 per cent sales tax law. The most important revisions would impose the levy on across-the-bar drinks.

Other legislative developments: Stopgap Appropriations — The Senate unanimously passed and sent to Gov. Lawrence a House-passed stopgap appropriation of $205,400,000 to finance normal state operations.

The money is being put up in advance until the Legislature winds up its task of approving the 1960-61 budget for the Commonwealth.

Adjournment—The Senate, with only half of its members on hand before the Labor Day holiday, moved to plans for a Sept. 28 final adjournment.

But there were indications that the deadline would not be met. The biggest obstacle is reaching a bipartisan agreement on the size of the budget.

The Democratic-controlled House already has completed its budget tasks but the Senate Republican majority is expected to make up to 60 million dollars in slashes.

Such a move would send appropriation bills to a conference committee to work out a compromise. It was anybody's guess on how long that effort would last.

Large Fire In Jersey City

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—A series of explosions in drums filled with chemicals fed a roaring fire on the waterfront Wednesday. Seven warehouse buildings stocked with inflammables were destroyed.

Some two dozen firemen were felled by smoke and heat and seven were hospitalized. They were in good condition in Jersey City Medical Center, however, and no one was injured seriously.

Local 1357, Retail Clerks International Assn., is the only local of seven in southern New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware to reject the 34-month contract.

Large Local
Although only 856 members of the local voted Tuesday night, the local represents 5,000 clerks in 350 stores in the three-state area. Together, the seven other locals represent 10,000 clerks in 150 stores.

Earl McDavid, eastern organizational director for the union, said the negotiating committee would call another membership meeting in 10 days to decide whether to strike.

It could not be learned of negotiations actually were renewed Wednesday. Neither union nor company officials were available for comment.

Ike Places Second Veto On Public Works Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower vetoed the public works, or pork barrel, bill again Wednesday. It took him less than half an hour to reject the $1,185,309,093 measure.

Chances were that Congress will override him, for the first time in 146 vetoes over six and a half years.

Even before the White House sent the veto message to the House, which was to act first, Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts won unanimous consent to consider the veto Thursday.

Food Store Clerks Refuse New Contract

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Food store clerks in the metropolitan area have rejected by a 452-406 vote, a new contract with three supermarket chains.

The clerks refused, however, to vote on whether to strike. Instead, they voted unanimously to renew negotiations with the Philadelphia Food Store Employees Labor Council, representing Acme, Food Fair and A. P.

Housing Bill Passed By Senate, 86-7

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new housing bill that has President Eisenhower's blessing — he vetoed two earlier versions — was passed by the Senate Wednesday 86-7.

The House is expected to approve it Thursday just as quickly with no changes and send it to the White House. House leaders have said they would accept the compromise measure.

House passage will dispose of this major piece of legislation and will provide funds for some housing programs that are running short of money.

Senate passage was described by Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) as no victory for Eisenhower nor a defeat for Congress.

Small Changes

He added there would have been no third housing bill this session if emissaries from the White House had not approached congressional leaders with word that a new measure would be signed if only small changes were made.

The word from the White House Tuesday after two days of conferences was that the bill as now written is acceptable to Eisenhower.

The complicated bill contains hundreds of changes in federal housing laws. It provides broad new authorization for slum clearance, public housing and other government-backed programs designed to help cities curb blight.

It also has various provisions designed to help stimulate the home-building industry, which has been moving at a high rate but is beginning to feel some effects of high interest rates.

Removed from the bill vetoed last week were these provisions: 1. A 30-million-dollar direct loan program for college classrooms.

2. An Oct. 1, 1960, cutoff date for the eight billion dollars of new authority for FHA mortgage insurance.

3. Permission to make 650 million dollars of grants for urban renewal or slum clearance all at once. This was stretched out to make 350 million dollars available to cities the first year and 300 million the second year.

Even before the White House sent the veto message to the House, which was to act first, Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts won unanimous consent to consider the veto Thursday.

There had been little or no doubt that Eisenhower would reject this bill, on the grounds it set up scores of projects he didn't want. This time Democratic leaders seemed sure they had the strength — two-thirds of those voting — needed to enact the bill into law over Eisenhower's objections.

He vetoed a previous public works bill Aug. 28 and the House by a one-vote margin upheld him Sept. 2. The vote to sustain the veto surprised many for this bill is dear to the hearts of congressmen.

It distributes hundreds of favorite back-home construction projects, on such things as river and harbor improvement, all over the country. It has come to be known as pork barrel legislation, with something for nearly every member of Congress.

The bill Eisenhower has just rejected is a slightly reduced version of the one he vetoed last month. The new bill was passed by the House 302-93 and by the Senate 73-15, margins far greater than two-thirds.

Capsule Flights
This shot was not intended as a full-range firing. The Atlas is capable of flights at more than 15,000 miles per hour, 500 miles high, over distances up to 6,300 miles. The target distance was far less than that.

Until now the ballistic missile division has been armed with the intermediate range Thor missiles, capable of up to 1,700 miles. Defense officials have looked forward expectantly to the day they could add the intercontinental Atlas to their equipment.

Legislation Forwarded To President

WASHINGTON (AP)—House passage Wednesday sent to President Eisenhower a penny-a-gallon increase in the federal gasoline tax for 21 months starting Oct. 1. It will cost motorists an estimated extra billion dollars.

The boost to four cents in the tax is designed to take the 41,000-mile interstate highway construction program out of the red and put it back on a pay-as-you-go basis. Without the extra money the program would soon bog down.

The bill isn't exactly what Eisenhower asked for but he's expected to sign it to keep highway construction progressing.

Eisenhower asked for a 1½-cent increase in the tax for five years.

Extra Money
Extra money for the highways during the three years following July 1, 1961, under the bill, will come from assignment of half of the 10 per cent manufacturers tax on new automobiles and the larger part of the 8 per cent excise tax on automobile parts and accessories.

This would put about 800 million dollars into the highway fund each year.

Eisenhower has strongly opposed any financing plan such as this which would take money from the general fund of the Treasury and make balancing the budget more difficult.

The House passed the bill by voice vote without debate, accepting amendments written by the Senate into the original House version last week.

One amendment would make the tax increase effective Oct. 1 instead of Sept. 1.

The Senate also wrote in provisions for the states to ease restrictions against billboards.

House Grants Subsidy To Districts
HARRISBURG (AP)—A $6,700,000 special subsidy to some 2,000 school districts facing a loss in state aid through the recent real estate revaluations was approved 182-1 by the House Wednesday night.

Before the subsidy was voted, the traditional conflict of interest between the big city and the rural areas was bared in an emotional debate.

The administration-backed proposal now goes to the Senate.

Rep. Maurice H. Goldstein (R-Allegheny) voted against the measure, maintaining "there is no reason we should change our basic state subsidy in midstream."

Softened Blow
The special subsidy is intended to soften the blow to the school districts from the recent property valuations of the State Tax Equalization Board. The board's valuations are the basis for state school aid; the higher the valuation, the more the school district is expected to contribute to support of its schools with no consequent decrease in state aid.

The state School Directors Assn. estimated the new valuations would cost 3rd and 4th class school districts — the rural areas — nine million dollars in the current biennium.

Philadelphia would gain about $2,300,000. Similarly, Pittsburgh would gain over $300,000. In all about 300 school districts would receive higher state subsidies under the new property valuation. This would not be affected by the bill.

Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Republican floor leader, complained:

"The hinterlands are being crucified by the tax equalization board. I think something more should be done."

Johnson, and Rep. Stanley G. Stroup (R-Bedford) said the tax board's valuations should be based on an average valuation spread over three or four years.

Good Morning!

Bobby Meyer Wins Letter Contest At Art Center

"WHY DID YOU like studying at the Pocono Art Center this Summer?" Helen M. Kollmeyer asked the children during the last meeting of her class recently.

"I liked going to the Pocono Art Center because I like to draw and paint. I like finger paints, too. From the lessons I attended I learned to draw and paint neatly and to paint pictures from stories. Our course was very interesting, educational and enjoyable."

This letter, mailed to Miss Kollmeyer by Bobby Meyer, age nine, Chipperfield Drive, Stroudsburg RD 1, was judged the best of eight letters in the contest. He will receive 500 pennies.

Water Colors

Several of the letters were illustrated with water color or crayon drawings.

The children were also asked how they had benefited from the course and what would they tell their friends.

Others who wrote letters were Peter and Stephen Harnik, New York City; Lynne and Laurie Harrison, Katherine Cartwright and Rachel and Barbara Cohen, all of Minisink Hills.

Contest judge was The Daily Record reporter, Harlan Stone.

Coal-Base Highway In Kentucky

FRANKFORT (AP) — Kentucky Wednesday laid the first strip of highway using a coal-base mixture.

The history-making project — if proven successful — could create a greatly expanded market for the coal mining industry. It could also bring about cheaper and better roads.

Nearly a mile stretch of U.S. 460 east of Frankfort was paved with the new material as over 100 state officials and representatives of Curtiss-Wright Corp. watched.

Development

Curtiss-Wright developed the coal-base road paving binding using bituminous coal rather than tar materials now used in bituminous surfacing. The work was done at its Quehanna, Pa., plant.

The binder is produced by digesting lump coal in coal tar. It would use between 2,000 and 2,200 tons of coal per mile of highway surfacing.

Higher Stream Penalties Sought

HARRISBURG (AP) — Higher penalties and more vigorous prosecution were suggested Wednesday as solutions to Pennsylvania's stream pollution problem.

These were sentiments expressed by various members of the House Fisheries Committee as it delved into the effect of stream pollution on fishing conditions in the state.

Rep. Harris G. Breth (D-Clearfield), told Robert J. Trace, sanitary water board counsel, that his record of prosecutions is definitely poor, an accusation that Trace denied.

Breth questioned whether stream polluters should not be taken to court to serve "as a shining example" to other would-be polluters. Rep. Peter G. Schaaf (D-Erie) also forwarded this view.

Trace replied that in many cases an out-of-court settlement is accepted rather than going through lengthy court proceedings to recover damages for fish killed by pollutants. Quite often, he added, the evidence would not warrant a conviction but companies offer a quiet settlement anyway to avoid adverse publicity.

The attorney, who has served the board over nine years, frankly admitted he is hesitant about prosecuting individuals, particularly first offenders.

Violations of the clean streams law is a misdemeanor, he said, and a conviction would start a criminal file for the offender.

Rep. Harry S. Gramlich (R-Venango) declared emphatically that the present $100 maximum penalty for violations is too low, a view that was endorsed by Trace.

Legislation already is under consideration to raise the maximum to $1,000.

Chairman William B. Curwood (D-Luzerne) told Trace he should have a larger staff to help enforce the clean streams law. Trace has told the committee he has a staff consisting of one part-time attorney and one state policeman and now they want to take the state policeman away from him.

Curwood promised at the conclusion that the committee would not whitewash anyone.

TODAY...10 P.M. THE NEW-SIZE FORD STARTS ON ITS WAY TO YOU!

The Falcon, the New-Size Ford, already is the most thoroughly tested and proven new car in history. Today this new Ford Falcon starts EXPERIENCE RUN, U.S.A., over every mile of numbered U.S. highway

This is not a test run in the ordinary sense of the word. For in its 3 years of development and over 3 million miles of proving, the Falcon has already passed and repassed every kind of test that could be devised.

It's been dust-tested, heat-tested, and endurance-tested on the test track at Kingman, Arizona. Wind-tested and rain-tested in the 300 mph wind tunnel at the University of Maryland. Shock-tested, curve-tested, brake-tested, noise-tested, paint-tested, stability-tested, service-tested. . . everything-tested on Ford's own proving grounds. The Falcon has already proved to engineers that it takes anything they can dish out.

Now, Experience Run, U.S.A. will show you what the Falcon can do over your kind of roads.

How many miles to the gallon? Records will be kept of every drop of gas used. Better gas mileage? The Falcon will average up to 30 miles per gallon!

On October 8, the New-Size Ford will be at your Ford Dealer's . . . for you to experience. See your Ford Dealer today for more information on the Ford Falcon.

'Showboat' Appearing At Pocono Playhouse

By Harlan Stone
"SHOWBOAT," that 32-year-old piece of Americana about the Mississippi River, floated into Pocono Playhouse Tuesday night on the notes of some of the theater's most famous songs.

The production directed by Bertram Yarbrough will run every night until a week from Saturday as the playhouse's last offering of the Summer season.

In a way this is the production staff's show. Given the somewhat smaller-than-Broadway stage, it has managed to get a cast of 53 onto the same space with at least eight different settings, without making the result look like a crush in a theater lobby.

"Showboat" presents the myth material of the boat captain's daughter who marries the mysterious river gambler and leaves for the big city (Chicago) with him, only to have him desert her for 20 years because of his shame over his poverty.

This plot makes for a good folk story, as long as its authenticity is respected by the actors. The song of "Ol' Man River," to take an example, can be a powerfully experience or maudlin if handled improperly, with over-emphasis. Too often the story line also lends itself to the maudlin.

When Magnolia, the captain's daughter, learns of the desertion of her husband Gaylord Ravenal. The play almost falls into this trap.

But, as in every good musical, the songs carry this one, and in the end this production adds up to a nostalgic, romantic event.

For "Showboat" Jerome Kern wrote the music and Oscar Hammerstein II the lyrics for such classics as "Only Make Believe," "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "You Are Love," and "Bill."

Excellent as the gambler is Evans Thornton who sings throughout with a full-bodied tenderness that makes him a most pleasing leading man.

John Garth III as a Negro riverhand does a fine job on "Ol' Man River" with his deep voice, the first time as a young man and the second time as an old man 40 years later.

Evelyn Wyckoff as Magnolia is best when she joins Thornton for the duet "You Are Love." Their singing soars to the backdrop moon with an intensity which reaches to the heart of the myth.

Will B. Able, playing Frank, a rather dance dancer, looks about seven feet tall on the stage and displays what must be a pair of the most rubbery, adroit dancing legs seen in a long time. At one point he kicks high enough to get his foot over the head of Caroline Worth, playing Ellie, his eventual wife.

Helen Dowdy plays the comical role of Queenie, the colored maid. Her ear-splitting voice, however, is carried over too much into her song "Ballyhoo." She belts it more than she sings it.

A late second act Charleston dance by the chorus seems superfluous. It ought to do more than indicate that another 20 years have passed and the scene has shifted to the gay 20's. This play could be more effective if the love story presented against the background of the stereotyped showboat melodrama of love was more strictly observed. But then disgressions give excuses for more songs.

For straight comedy acting Richard Wentworth as Captain Andy set the pace. He is especially likeable when the showboat play's villain gets frightened off the stage and he himself has to tell the audience the outcome of the melodrama in his own words and gestures. Joseph Machauley and Max Shoaf add an uproarious touch as two Kentucky backwoods men who come down to the river to see the show and shoot up the place.

A surprise appearance in the last scene was made by Dixie Lee, public relations director for the playhouse.

Signal Depot Names Soldier Of Month

TOBYHANNA—A 24-year-old sergeant has been named soldier-of-the-month here at the Army Signal Corps Depot.

SP5 Joery E. Smittick, a radar repairman with the 510th Signal Co., was chosen for his military bearing, courtesy, and superior knowledge of Army regulations and current events.

He will receive a framed soldier-of-the-month certificate, cash prize and three-day pass.

Smittick, a native of Sapulpa, Okla., is a May, 1953, graduate of the Booker T. Washington High School in that city. He also completed two years of Agricultural, Mechanical and Normal College in Pine Bluffs, Ark.

Sports Captain
During his high school days, he captained the football and basketball teams.

Smittick entered the Army June 6, 1955, and underwent basic training at Fort Chaffee, Ark., later transferring to Fort Monmouth, N. J., for a nine-month course in radar repair.

He is married to the former Chesterine Sanford of Scranton, whom he met at a USO dance shortly after his arrival in Tobyhanna. They have a 10-month-old daughter, Joerine.

He is the son of Bessie and Willie Smittick of Sapulpa, Okla.

Neff Placed Under Arrest

BEAVER FALLS (AP) — Samuel G. Neff, former state senator and Democratic Beaver County chairman, was arrested Wednesday at his home and charged with extortion and conspiracy to commit extortion.

The arrest was made by two special state officers acting for District Attorney Richard P. Steward.

Steward's investigation was prompted by an audit report issued by Auditor General Charles Smith into state highway funds.

Neff posted a $10,000 bond and was released until a preliminary hearing Friday.

Four other men were arrested earlier in the case. They are Robert Yoho of Homewood, James Maery of New Brighton, Leon Kaleta of White Twp. and George Mazzant of Ellwood City.

Dr. Shiffer Shows Alaska Films To Kiwanis Club

DR. Paul H. Shiffer showed colored slides of Alaska at the close of yesterday's meeting of the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club in the Penn Stroud Hotel.

The slides were taken in July while Dr. and Mrs. Shiffer were on a vacation trip to Alaska.

They were in Juneau on July 4, the day ceremonies were held in that capital city of the new state to dedicate the new 49-star flag.

Dr. Shiffer was introduced by John B. Dunkelberger, program chairman. John E. Watt presided.

Temple Calls Off Strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Union employees at Temple Hospital Wednesday cancelled a strike deadline of midnight Wednesday night.

The cancellation followed a meeting between hospital attorneys and officials of Local 252 of the Building Service Employees Union.

The union officials said the walkout would be postponed as long as the talks continue.

The union represents 400 non-professional employees at the hospital and also claims to represent a majority of non-professional workers in 15 city hospitals.

It seeks a contract with the hospitals, but the Hospital Council of Philadelphia has advised its members not to deal with unions, asserting they are legally exempted from doing so.

The strike deadline affected only Temple Hospital.

Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Area Out Of 'Substantial Labor Surplus' Category

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton area has been dropped from the "substantial labor surplus" category, the Labor and Industry Department reported Wednesday.

The department said a downward trend in unemployment in Pennsylvania from May to July made the area the fifth section in the state enjoying relatively low unemployment.

The other areas are Lancaster, Harrisburg, Reading and the Sharon-Farrell portion of the Youngstown, Ohio area. Twenty-six other areas in the state are still classified as substantial labor surplus areas.

The department credited expanded hiring in durable goods manufacturing plus seasonal pickups in construction and service as changing the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton area from one of substantial to moderate labor surplus according to United States Labor Department ratings.

Parents Must Pay

A measure imposing liability upon parents "for the tortious acts of children under 18 years of age" has won approval of the Legislature in Harrisburg.

It authorizes the recovery of money damages from parents of children destroying property through destructive pranks and costly malicious mischief.

The bill passed the House by a wide margin of 135-53 and the Senate by an equally decisive vote—81-13.

Under its provisions the Juvenile Court Law is amended by making parents liable for financial loss caused by their juvenile sons and daughters.

This means parents will have to answer for the mischief of their children—which is exactly as it should be.

Perhaps when they begin to dip into their own pocketbooks to replace or repair property destroyed by their children, they will be jolted into giving closer attention to the behavior and whereabouts of their offspring.

It is to be hoped this law will do more than protect innocent parties who suffer property damage at the hands of irresponsible youngsters. It should induce parents to exercise more control so that less mischief occurs.

Black Hole of Calcutta

George Sokolsky Says...

Nikita's Ideas Of America

Nikita Khrushchev wrote an article for "Foreign Affairs," in which he discloses an ignorance of the United States which may be the cause for much of the troubles between the two countries. He also displays a lack of understanding of the industrial development in his own country. He says:

"... the dynamics of the development of the U.S.S.R. and the USA are such that the 42-year-old land of the Soviets is already able to challenge the 150-year-old capitalist state to economic competition; and the most far-sighted American leaders are admitting that the Soviet Union is fast catching up with the United States and will ultimately outstrip it..."

First of all, the history of industrialization is that one country builds on another. True, in 1917, Soviet Russia was far behind in the development of manufactures.

It was a backward country. Today, Soviet Russia is one of the principal manufacturing countries on Earth.

But Khrushchev omits many telling facts when he makes a comparison between what we accomplished here in 150 years and what they accomplished there in 42 years.

In the first place, he should have called attention to the fact that we gave Russia, free of charge, approximately $11,000,000,000 which became the base for their modern industrialization.

Secondly, Soviet Russia purchased or bartered for entire plants which came from the United States, Great Britain and Germany. In a word, upon the foundation of existing plants in Western Europe, Soviet Russia built her present industrial order.

Japan did the same thing a little earlier. Beginning in 1868, Japan, under the Emperor Meiji and Prince Ito, went through a period of industrialization, becoming by 1914, the leading country in Asia and by 1918 one of the five great powers on Earth.

Japan's achievement was actually more brilliant than Russia's because it was all done by her own efforts.

Let him pick them at random. Let him walk in here and there and discover what he can get in the way of consumers' goods.

It would only go to show that Khrushchev simply does not know anything at all about American life and the American way of life. He has read perhaps some articles in Communist publications and he has disbelieved statistical information given to him by his experts. He has disbelieved because it has been beyond his experience and understanding.

It would be an advantage to the world if Khrushchev did understand this country and if he did understand Western civilization. Perhaps he is not too stubborn to learn.

Quick Thinking Saves Two Couples

Two Stroudsburg area couples used their quick thinking ability to escape from possible danger in the desert of California recently.

The entire story has a humorous twist, but it could have been much more serious.

The couples playing the starring role today are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. David Powell, all four former residents of Monroe County.

The two couples went on a picnic to the desert recently and enroute found that the radiator of their automobile had boiled dry. This same situation has driven many people into a state of panic and later death on the sands of the desert.

But, it wasn't the case this time, we are happy to report.

The Shaws and Powells calmly poured Hawaiian punch and 7-Up into the radiator and drove to a farm some distance away. There they obtained water and then drove to a service station, where the radiator trouble was corrected.

Both the Shaws and Powells live in Los Angeles, where the husbands are employed by an airplane firm. Mrs. Shaw is the former Bertha Learn, of Bartonsville. Mrs. Powell is the former Barbara Adelman, of Stroudsburg.

The Shaws recently played host at "Stroudsburg Night" in Los Angeles and had several visitors from this area including Jimmy Ifft, Ray Coffer and others.

The Shaws and Powells were also spectators at the first game of the Twin City Poconos played in the World Softball Championship Tournament in Long Beach, Calif., recently.

Yes, it is a small world. But, it certainly is nice to see that our local products know what to do in an emergency — even though it occurs in California.

Reports From Congress

Labor Bill Clarified

By Congressional Quarterly

The Labor Reform Bill passed by Congress can be divided into two main sections — the anti-corruption, "bill of rights" provisions and the Taft-Hartley amendments.

It is the T-H amendments regarding secondary boycotts, organizational picketing, hot cargo contracts and "no-man's land" where the great controversy was raised.

Congressional Quarterly clarifies these four issues and their widespread impact in a series of articles, the first of which appears below:

"No Man's Land"

A "no man's land" labor dispute was one the Federal Government refused to handle and the states were not allowed to handle because the Federal Government had exclusive jurisdiction. The situation arose because of the nature of Federal-state relationships.

Congress has power to regulate interstate commerce. In 1935, in the Wagner Act, it set up a National Labor Relations Board to regulate labor-management disputes involving businesses in interstate commerce. (The act was amended in 1947 by the Taft-Hartley Act.)

The board was given power to conduct representation elections designating unions as the bargaining agent for employees at any business. It also was authorized to order an employer or a union to stop doing various things defined as "unfair labor practices" under the law. It could go to Federal courts to get injunctions to enforce its orders.

From its creation, the NLRB refused to handle some types of labor disputes over which Congress gave it jurisdiction because they were too small to warrant the expense.

For example, until a 1958 Supreme Court decision forced it to, the NLRB refused to handle any dispute between a hotel and its employees.

In other industries, the board refused to handle any cases involving firms doing less than a specified dollar volume of business annually. This meant all non-qualifying businesses and unions had no recourse to the NLRB against illegal practices.

To meet this situation, state labor relations agencies and state courts began to assume jurisdiction over cases excluded by the NLRB. But in 1957, in a landmark decision in the Guss v. Utah case, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that state agencies or courts could not handle the cases excluded by the NLRB.

The court said Congress had preempted the labor-management relations field when it involved business in interstate commerce; regardless of the fact that the NLRB refused to handle certain cases, the states could not take over.

This left unions and employers in a jurisdictional "no man's land," with no recourse to any state or Federal agency against unfair labor practices.

The situation worked this way in practice: Suppose a small Florida hotel had a contract with a waiters' union. The hotel qualified as a business doing interstate commerce, but it was not doing enough business annually ($500,000) for the NLRB to agree to handle the case.

The hotel owner decided he wanted to break the union, and he fired its three officers. Under the Taft-Hartley Act, firing an employe for union activities was an unfair labor practice.

But the union could not go to the NLRB and ask it to order the fired man rehired, because the case was too small for the NLRB. Nor could the union go to the Florida state government, because the state was barred from handling the case. In effect, the three-fired men had no legal recourse and the hotel owner was able to break the law with impunity.

Extent of "No Man's Land" — According to the NLRB and AFL-CIO, businesses trapped in the "no man's land" gap covered several million workers (no exact estimate was ever made), chiefly in the retail, hotel, restaurant, service and laundry industries.

Under NLRB 1959 standards, retail concerns had to do a half million dollars gross volume of annual business to qualify for NLRB handling; non-retail firms had to do $500,000 annual business outside the state; public utilities and transit systems a quarter million gross volume annually; taxicabs a half million; hotels a half million; radio, television, telegraph and telephone firms $100,000 annual gross volume; and newspapers, $200,000 gross volume.

Debate — President Eisenhower in his 1959 labor message requested that states be given power to assume jurisdiction over any labor dispute the NLRB refused to handle. He argued that the business involved were small and primarily local in character.

Unions, almost without exception, opposed this plan. They said that since state labor laws were not uniform, unions would be subjected to a variety of conflicting regulations and requirements.

They also feared letting state courts, with wide injunctive powers, handle labor cases; Federal court injunctive power in labor disputes was much more limited. The unions favored expanding the NLRB and making it handle all cases in interstate commerce.

Final Provision — The final version of the labor bill, as cleared for the President, followed his proposal: state labor agencies and state courts were permitted to take jurisdiction over "no man's land" cases and apply state law. A provision added in conference barred the NLRB from expanding the categories of cases it refused to handle. In the future, it could not refuse to handle any case it would have handled as of Aug. 1, 1960.

A Successful Trip

Demonstrations of good will that greeted the President in all three of the European nations he visited are a tribute to the United States as well as to him. The President's winning and persuasive personality has added to his political power at home. It has had the same effect in Europe.

But aside from the evident cordiality which he met in Europe there is the feeling among Europeans that only the United States can resolve the crisis that confronts the continent. It has become our responsibility to unite the European nations against the common danger that confronts them in the East. This is a unique situation, for we have in the past come to the assistance of Europe but never before in peacetime have been recognized as its co-ordinator and leader.

No European statesman has the prestige to do this job. Adenauer has a firm hold on the affections of the West Germans, de Gaulle on those of the French. Macmillan heads the majority party in Britain. But let any of them cross his own borders and doubts arise.

The President has assured European statesmen that in his talks with Khrushchev he will make no commitments involving them. The President will keep that promise. But there is no one else in sight who can reconcile European differences and present a common front to Russian aggression. That is the task of the man in the White House.

The Pennsylvania Story

Saving Tax Dollars

(Columnist Mason Denison is on vacation. Top-ranking state officials are serving as "guest columnists" during his absence. Guest columnist today is State Auditor General Charles C. Smith.)

By Charles C. Smith

State Auditor General

Harrisburg — Looking back over the two years that I have been cast in the role of "Watchdog of the State Treasury," by virtue of my office as Auditor General, I am more thankful every day for my long years of experience as a Member of the General Assembly, faceted with the responsibility of finding money to pay for ever-increasing costs of government.

It is a matter of some satisfaction to me, therefore, to be able as Auditor General to suggest ways in which the cost of our State government can be kept down, while at the same time not in any way reducing services our citizens have a right to expect from our Commonwealth.

It is the little, unnecessary expenses, repeated thousands of times, that eat up the taxpayers' money. The dimes and quarters that could be saved mount into thousands of dollars, and then into millions.

And it is the extra millions that force our lawmakers, year after year, to search for more and more taxes to run our government.

I think an example or two of such unnecessary expenditures which we have scrutinized in the Auditor General's Department will show what I have in mind. First, however, I want to outline briefly what I believe to be the most important function of the Auditor General as the public's "watchdog."

Under our State Constitution, no money can be paid from the State Treasury except through an appropriation and upon a warrant issued by the proper official. The Legislature, early in the history of our Commonwealth, designated the proper official to issue warrants as the Auditor General, probably because he must be elected by the people every four years and is entirely independent of the Governor.

The law also provides that, before the Auditor General can issue a warrant on the State Treasury, he must be satisfied that the expenditure involved is both lawful and correct.

This means that the Auditor General through a staff of experienced and competent auditors must be constantly alert to get all the facts, particularly when expenditures are out of the ordinary.

It is in the process of asking questions that we are many times able to offer suggestions which, if taken in the spirit in which they are given, often result in substantial savings without in any way reducing services.

A recent example is the manner in which one of our larger State institutions purchased bread. This institution, which has 3000 persons to feed every day of the year, was eligible to receive free Federal surplus flour.

When it went out for bids, it asked commercial bakers to submit two prices: One if the bakery purchased the flour, and the other if Federal surplus flour was supplied by the institution. As it turned out, the difference in price between the first and second price was six cents a loaf.

Reviewing the invoices over a period of time, we found that all the bread received under this contract cost eighteen cents a loaf, instead of twelve cents, so we inquired why — wasn't the institution supplying surplus flour to the bakery?

The explanation we received was that the stock of surplus flour was temporarily low at the institution, but from now on the bakery would be supplied with the free flour and every loaf the State receives from now on will cost six cents less; a saving of one-third.

While items such as this rarely ever make headlines, it is the way a vigilant Auditor General's Department can save the tax dollars the public pays by eliminating waste and inefficiency.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Policeman's Friend

To The Editor:

Dear Sir:

I had quite a good laugh over the remarks about shutting up the State Police Station up Mount Pocono way. Well, sir, I had a long talk with a horse and he really gave me some real horse sense. I remember, as a young boy, my dreams of yesteryear. Oh yes, I wanted to be a State Trooper.

I sure had plenty of time to study the routine of the old State Troopers and I had more time in the past few years when I watched the Highway Patrolmen training out Hershey way.

Well sir, I wonder how many citizens of our wonderful state take time to think about our State Troopers. Do they receive a living wage? Do they have a substantial retirement fund? Do they get deserved promotions? I am glad that my dream didn't come true!

We have the best law-enforcing organization. We as citizens do not need to sit back and see that wonderful group be underpaid and wait for a hand-out from some political party. We send our representatives to Harrisburg. Why? To get the best for every citizen.

Well sir, State Troopers are citizens who protect our interests and they do have to eat, live and hope to draw their retirement fund. I think the State Highway Patrol should be a separate part of our state not controlled by political issues.

I know that Joe Brown had years of service in the State Police. Joe can be any of our wonderful draft-free state policemen. Do they have any say in who is made the commander? No, Why?

Let's take politics out of promotions and pay and we can have more State Police on the Highways! We need them and they need us! I know that not enough thought about this

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Jimmy Starr has a genuine new shaggy dog story for you. It's about a sheepdog who was insanely in love with another sheepdog. He whispered into her ear one day, "Mary, I cannot live another hour without you. . . . You are Mary, aren't you?"

Barrett Agrees To Borrow $55,000 To Meet Architect's Fees

Funds To Be Used On New School

SWIFTWATER—Barrett Township School Board will borrow approximately $55,000 to meet architect's fees for the proposed Pocono Mountains Joint High School under a plan submitted to the joint school committee last night.

The meeting was held here at Paradise School.

L. P. Coogan Co., the architects, submitted bills totaling that amount on the basis of working drawings for the school being 85 percent complete.

Barrett's board must approve the move at a meeting next week, but the approval appears assured, it was revealed at last night's meeting.

Same Plan

It will be the same plan as the one under which Paradise Township borrowed money for initial excavation and preliminary work for the proposed school.

In the event that the school is not built, both Paradise and Barrett Township boards will be reimbursed by the other boards for their share of the loans.

The proposal must also be approved by cash of the member boards of the district after Barrett acts.

In a lengthy session lasting until after midnight, members of the board reviewed the plans for the school with representatives of Coogan's company.

The board decided on sanded Colonial Norman size brick for the exterior of the building, upon the architect's recommendation.

The brick will be buff colored to provide contrast with concrete work on the structure.

Fire Ruins House Trailer In Bangor

BANGOR—A brief but spectacular fire destroyed the house trailer belonging to Willard Hoagland, of Snyder St., late last night. Damage was placed at several thousand dollars.

Hoagland, a slater who lived alone in the trailer, was frying eggs on a hot plate when some grease spilled out of the pan and caught fire.

The blaze spread quickly to nearby curtains and soon enveloped the entire inside of the 20-foot structure. The trailer was a mass of flames when Bangor's three fire companies responded to the alarm at 11:10 p.m. They extinguished the blaze with booster hose.

The trailer was located on a hillside in the South Bangor section. The fire was visible in many parts of the community and attracted a large number of people to the scene.

Arrest Made In Macungie Murder Case

ALLENTOWN (AP)—A white man was charged with murder Wednesday night in the death of a Negro woman whose body was found at the bottom of a quarry.

State police said John Breen, 63, admitted killing Lillie Leather, 57.

Breen said he saw the woman sitting outside her cabin early Sunday morning and grabbed her. The statement said she screamed and he knocked her down, choked her and pushed her into the quarry.

When her body was found Tuesday they arrested her common-law husband, Earl Henry, 65, his uncle, Lawrence Henry, 67, Breen and Charles Frederick, 60, also white.

The four held a party at the cabin Saturday afternoon. All worked on a farm in nearby Macungie Route 1, where the woman lived.

Accident In East Borough

EAST STROUDSBURG police arrested Theodore Brewer, East Stroudsburg RD 2 for side-swiping a parked car at 5:25 p.m. yesterday.

Police said Brewer was driving south on N. Courtland St. when he scraped the bumper and fender of a parked car belonging to Edward Roth, 127 N. Courtland St.

Services For Anna May

FUNERAL services for Miss Anna May, 75, of the Women's University Club, New York City, librarian at Pocono Manor Inn for 13 years, were held at 11 a.m. yesterday at the William H. Clark funeral home.

Rev. Thomas E. Shoemaker officiated. The body will be taken to Oshkosh, Wis., for interment in Riverside Cemetery.

State May Close Dairy In Area

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state intends to close down a Stroudsburg area dairy in a few days as a chronic violator of the clean streams law, the attorney for the Sanitary Water Board disclosed Wednesday.

But Atty. Robert J. Trace said the board has to give more study to the problem of raw sewage being dumped into a stream there by a privately owned sewage system.

Rep. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe) asked Trace about the sewage when the attorney appeared before the House Fisheries Committee Wednesday to give his views on the effect of stream pollution on fishing conditions.

Yetter complained that he had asked Trace to write a letter to the sewer company asking them to stop dumping the raw sewage into the unnamed stream, but that Trace had put him off.

"The situation in East Stroudsburg cannot be covered by a letter," Trace told Yetter. "I told you I would put it on our agenda, but that the earliest possible time would be mid-September."

Yetter told Trace he doesn't understand the board decision to close down the dairy while deferring action against the sewer company.

"This fellow is dumping a little milky water into the stream and you're going to shut him down, yet this other fellow is dumping raw sewage."

There was reference to a dispute between the borough water authority and the private sewer system.

"I refuse to have the board used to settle a dispute between a borough and one of its authorities," Trace told Yetter.

Neither the dairy nor the sewer system were identified.

(Editor's Note: Penn-Deil Dairy of East Stroudsburg was warned on Tuesday, Aug. 18, to stop the practice of allowing milk to flow into Sambo Creek).

Jointure Studies Types Of Heating

BRODHEADSVILLE—Pleasant Valley Joint School Board last night reconsidered the choice of coal or oil heat for the jointure's new high school here.

The board set Oct. 4 as the tentative date to make a tour of oil fired schools with Joseph A. Rado, Berwick, contractor for the school's heating and ventilating.

Acting Board President Jerome A. Blakeslee told members Rado said he can save the jointure up to $30,000 in installation costs if the board switches to oil heat.

The board chose coal heat because of the new school's proximity to extensive coal fields, Blakeslee said.

Board members pointed out these other advantages of coal heat during the discussion in Chestnut Hill High School here:

The bill for oil fuel will run about $8,000-$10,000 more per year than for coal. Some fuel oils must be pre-heated before they can be used.

Here are reasons why the board chose to reconsider their choice:

Coal furnaces will cost $30,000 more than oil boilers to install. Coal fuel requires an extra janitor at a minimum salary of $3,500 per year.

New Arrests At Tamaqua

TAMAQUA (AP)—State police arrested three more men recently on charges of conspiracy and operating a gambling establishment in this Schuylkill County community.

The arrests were connected with last week's state police raid which netted 16 alleged operators and 46 customers.

Arrested Tuesday were Rocco Marchese and Michael Carisi, both of Hazleton, and Jack Costello, Tamaqua. All were freed in $1,000 bail, similar to bonds posted by the 16 other alleged operators last week.

Study Approved

HARRISBURG (AP)—A proposed special study of the state's public school system was approved by the House Rules Committee Wednesday night.

Holy Name Holds Annual Banquet

THE HOLY NAME Society of St. Matthew's Church held its annual banquet last night at the Bartonville Hotel with about 90 members present.

Rev. William Pakutka, professor of philosophy at Marywood College, spoke on "The Rebuilding, Revival and Renewal of Christianity."

Installation

George Rung, secretary, and Guy Nicolas, treasurer, were installed in office by Rev. John Esseff, spiritual leader of the society.

Andrew LeBar, president, announced that Sept. 13 is Communion Sunday for the society and urged every member to attend the services, scheduled for St. Matthew's Church at 8:30 a.m. and St. Luke's at 8 a.m.

Stroud Union Lists Pupils

STUDENT registration in Stroud Union School District was more than 100 below the anticipated number, attendance figures for the opening day of classes show.

Superintendent Earl F. Groner reported that 1,147 students registered at the junior-senior high school and 1,698 in the district's seven elementary buildings.

The district had expected 1,170 high school students and 1,790 elementary pupils. Groner said another thirty students are still expected to register.

Bangor Firm Wins Extension

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Sanitary Water Board has granted the Blue Ridge Textile Co., Bangor, until Dec. 31, this year, to construct works for complete treatment of wastes entering an unnamed tributary of Martins Creek from its textile mill. This project was to have been completed by April 1, 1959.

The firm reported that it has attempted to participate in a municipal sewerage project, but now plans to construct its own treatment works.

Senate Confirms Mrs. Warner

HARRISBURG (AP)—Mrs. Florence Warner of Saylorsburg was confirmed by the Senate Wednesday as an associate judge for Monroe County.

She succeeds Homer Shupp who retired recently.

ESSTC In Legislation Under Vote

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two Democratic senators introduced legislation Wednesday which would appropriate $20,766,000 for the operation of the 14 state teachers colleges during the 1959-61 biennium.

The bill was introduced by Sens. Jo Hays (Centre) and Harry E. Saylor (York).

Teachers Colleges

The measure would provide these appropriations for the state teachers colleges:

Bloomburg, $1,620,000; California, $1,680,000; Cheyney, $720,000; Clarion, $1,020,000; East Stroudsburg, $1,320,000; Edinboro, $1,230,000; Indiana, $3,000,000; Kutztown, $1,290,000; Lock Haven, $990,000; Mansfield, $1,020,000; Millersville, $1,740,000; Shippensburg, $1,392,000; Slippery Rock, $1,404,000, and West Chester, $2,340,000.

48 hours to talk matters over with Donmoyer.

A meeting has been set for tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Administration Building.

788 Pupils In Jointure

CHESTNUT HILL—Seven hundred and 88 students registered for the start of classes at Pleasant Valley Jointure Tuesday, Supervising Principal John C. Mills said last night.

Seven hundred and 75 had been expected.

Included in the total were 345 elementary and secondary students at Chestnut Hill High School, 346 at Polk High School, 80 in Wind Gap and 17 in the jointure's new special education class at the Gilbert Guild Hall.

Commission Raises Fish Standards

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has raised eligibility standards for the streams it stocks with trout.

The commission said yesterday it will not add any portion of a stream to its stocking list unless it has a minimum average width of 10 feet, a minimum flow of two cubic feet per second through June 15, and a maximum temperature of 74 degrees.

Previously, the commission restricted stocking of legal size trout to streams open to public fishing for at least two continuous miles. Larger streams were eligible if they were open to public fishing for one mile and had a total surface area of at least four acres.

The commission also said that although this week ended last regular 1959 season on Brook, brown and rainbow trout, fishing for rainbows is legal in lakes and ponds through Oct. 31.

Extension

The extension for rainbows was approved by the state fish commission at its July meeting. The commission decided the extension would have little effect on the number of rainbows in any given body of water since that species is a natural spring spawner.

Trout fishing also is being allowed on the left branch of Young Woman's Creek in Clinton County, but fishermen are required to return their catch to the stream.

William Voigt Jr., commission executive director, said the area is being managed as a "put them back alive" experiment until Oct. 31.

Districts Name New Committees

THREE community committees have been elected for each of Monroe County's seven Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation districts, the election tabulating board announced yesterday.

Listed in order of chairman, vice-chairman and regular member, the new community committees for 1960 are:

Hamilton Township — Kenneth Roeder, Archie Heller and C. H. Haney Jr.
Tonhanna, Tunkhannock and Conowingo Townships — A. T. Blakeslee, Milo Argot and Leon Keiper.

Chestnut Hill Township — Hadden Murphy, Theodore Bush and Wilson Hawk.

Polk Township — William Baumgartner, Ralph Snyder and Wilmer Kroger.

Jackson, Pocono, Price, Paradise and Barrett Townships — Jacob Leary, Sterling Miller and John Montgomery.

Smithfield, Stroud and Middle Smithfield Townships — John F. Michael Jr., Leonard Reish and Marlin Serfass.

Eldred and Ross Townships — Paul Kostenbader, Clarence A. Smith and Raymond E. Smith.

The seven community chairmen automatically became delegates to the county ASC convention Sept. 24 when they will elect a three-man county committee for 1960. Anyone who was nominated for community committeeman is eligible for the county committee.

On the election tabulating board, which met yesterday morning at the county ASC office, Stroudsburg, are Donald F. deOtte, A. B. Moyer and Daniel H. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wildoss, Linda and Carol Wildoss were in Pen Argyl, Monday to see the Labor Day parade.

Area Considered For Soil Center

WASHINGTON—The Pocono Mountains region is being considered as a possible site for the soil conservation research center proposed for the Northeastern United States.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) announced this yesterday after conferring with Ervin Peterson, assistant secretary of agriculture. Peterson said the Department of Agriculture would send a team of experts to the Monroe-Pike-Wayne-Carbon area to look over promising sites and recommend any that are suitable.

Purpose of the center would be to consider design and location for small flood control dams, soil erosion, runoff and watershed drainage problems.

Congressman Walter emphasized that such research would tie in closely with studies already under way on the Delaware River, Brodheads Creek, Pocono Creek and other stream basins, and hence the Pocono area would be ideal as the site for a soil conservation research center.

He also pointed out that the Poconos are within easy access of other sections of the Northeast, including New England, which would be covered by the center.

The congressman was contacted on the matter after it came to the attention of Raymond Allegar, president of the Monroe County Soil Conservation District.

John Lesoine, chairman of the board of county commissioners, cooperated in enlisting the services of Rep. Walter.

The congressman also disclosed he had contacted State Secretary of Agriculture William L. Henning in support of having the center located in the Poconos.

Ivor Fenton, of Mahanoy City, will meet with Peterson today in the hopes of obtaining the proposed installation for the Pottsville section.

Flood Plan Approved By Congress

THE UNITED STATES Congress has approved the watershed protection and flood prevention plan for the Greene-Dreher Watershed, the local sponsoring groups announced yesterday.

Sponsoring the 16 planned flood prevention dams are the county commissioners and the Soil Conservation Districts of Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties.

The dams will be built in the 47,810 acre watershed which drains parts of the three counties.

Sites Surveyed

Seven of the 29 tentative dam sites for the Brodheads Creek watershed project have been surveyed by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, A. Norman Dietrick, local SCS representative, said.

When a final plan is drawn up for the Brodheads, it will be submitted to Congress for similar approval.

The total cost of the Greene-Dreher project has been estimated at 2.9 million dollars. An SCS survey showed that the August 1955 flood caused approximately 1.4 million dollars in damage.

State To Make Survey Of Schools

HARRISBURG (AP)—What does it cost for the familiar yellow bus to take Johnny to school each day?

That is only one of the statistical facts that state research experts will be studying during the 1959-60 school year in a $1,000,000 survey of eight areas of school costs and education administration.

Gov. Lawrence said in a week-end statement that the result of the survey would be "more careful planning and elimination of wasteful expense at all levels of education."

Program Expenses

The public instruction department already has committed $40,000 to the program and expects to allocate another $10,000 after the 1959-61 budget is approved by the legislature. The federal government matches the money under the national defense education act.

Lawrence said the statistical studies would look into:

1. Projected costs for education in school districts and colleges during the next decade.
2. The perpetual school building inventory on age of buildings, fire insurance ratings, site sizes and special facilities.
3. Transportation costs, including cost per pupil per year, cost per mile and cost per hour.
4. The number and types of schools in operation.
5. Staffing and expenses of county superintendents' offices.
6. Enrollments by grades of non-public, non-catholic schools and their teaching staffs.
7. Data on post graduation activities of high school students, based on I.Q. and high school course, for use in planning college facilities.
8. The reporting procedure by which high schools forward statistical data to the department.

Woman Hurt In Fall

STERLING—Mrs. Harold Lee, wife of the vice president of the Southern Wayne Joint School Board, suffered a broken back in a fall from a tractor at her home here yesterday.

Mrs. Lee was removed to Hahnemann Hospital, Scranton, and then transferred immediately to a Philadelphia hospital.

There has been no report on her condition.

Judge Bodie's Brother Dies

HONESDALE (AP)—Joseph A. Bodie, 74, brother of Wayne County Judge Clarence E. Bodie, died Wednesday in a nursing home after an eight-year illness.

Bodie suffered a stroke eight years ago and had been ill ever since. He had been in the photography business in Honesdale for many years.

Wayne Board Drops Unit From Lehigh

HONESDALE — The Wayne County School Board Tuesday night voted unanimously to release the Lehigh Township School Board from Wayne County jurisdiction.

Lehigh board, present at the meeting, indicated that plans were under way to obtain final approval for affiliation with the North Pocono Joint School District in Lackawanna County.

Students from the Gouldsboro area in Lehigh Township yesterday began attending North Pocono Joint schools under an interim arrangement worked out recently.

Before Lehigh Township can officially join the North Pocono Jointure the move must be approved by the State Council of Education and North Pocono school officials.

Promotion Days Set For Stroudsburg

STROUDSBURG Sidewalk Days will be observed Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10.

According to A. A. Widmer, general chairman, the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. is attempting to have as many merchants as possible place tables of merchandise in front of their stores with personnel on hand to sell it.

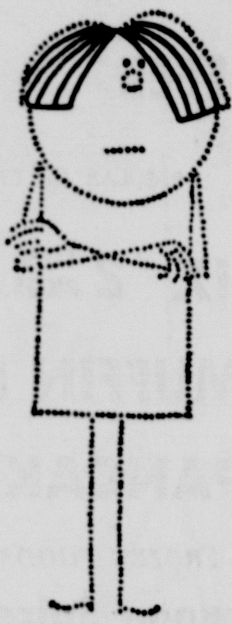

Promotional Ideas

Also scheduled are cracker barrels, grab bags and other promotional ideas.

Clubs and organizations desiring to raise funds by cake, book or rummage sales during the two-day event are asked to contact Widmer.

Officer Found Dead

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—An Israeli army officer who became lost from his unit on maneuvers was found dead near the Israeli-Egyptian border recently. An army spokesman said he had been slain and robbed.

A young lady with "don't needs" galore
Said, "To sell these for cash I'd adore."
Then she ran a Want Ad,
And it made her so glad,
'Cause she sold the whole works before four!

No Definite Date Set For Bridge

ALTHOUGH a definite date for the finish of work on the Interborough bridge has not been set as yet, an official of the contractor said yesterday that traffic will be routed temporarily over the concrete side when Brown St. has been blacktopped.

Robert Horst, of the J. Richard Nissley Contracting Co., said yesterday the tentative schedule calls for Brown St. to be blacktopped, the routing of traffic across the bridge up Brown. Then Washington St. will be completed for traffic.

West Side
After the forms have been removed from the west side of the bridge, they will be placed on the east side, and concrete will be poured. The west side concrete is presently hard enough to withstand traffic, Horst said.

On the Stroudsburg side, Horst said as soon as McConnell St. is completed, traffic will be moved up this thoroughfare to Sarah, then the Main St. and other approaches will be finished.

Horst said the state has allotted a total of 215 working days to the firm to finish the bridge, and of this amount, he said approximately half of them have been used.

George T. Robinson, Stroudsburg borough solicitor, is currently preparing bonds for condemnation proceedings against properties needed for McConnell St.

2,114 Pupils Enroll At East Borough

TOTAL enrollment at East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools yesterday totalled 2,114 students, the office of Carl T. Secor, supervising principal announced.

Breaking the figures down, they show: Smithfield, 235; Middle Smithfield, 64; Bushkill, 82; East Stroudsburg Elementary, 582; and the college Laboratory School, 245. This makes a total elementary enrollment of 1,208.

Junior High
Enrollment at the J. M. Hill Junior High School was 458.

At the High School enrollment figures showed a total of 448. Secor said the first day of school went very satisfactorily as the sessions began at 8:45 a.m.

There were no troubles with transportation, Secor said. He reported that final enrollment figures would be released by next Monday.

Barrett Club Endorses Community Planning Idea

Barrett—Community Planning was endorsed unanimously by members of the Barrett Community Club at their September meeting at the YMCA, following a talk by Karl Weller, chairman of the Weller Brush Co.

Weller in his talk stressed the importance of early planning.

The new transportation to be offered by the new highways centering in Monroe County will bring in new industry, which is desirable, he said, but it will also bring problems in keeping industry from encroaching on homes and schools.

To provide for the best interests of all, community planning, which takes years from start to finish, is necessary. Such community planning can be set in motion if individual citizens make their wishes known to the supervisors, and ask them to form a committee to map out a community plan. State aid will be available for such a committee if it has community support, he said.

Weller announced that the Rotary Club, the Lions Club and the Firemen's Assn. had all endorsed the need for community planning.

Cullen on Vietnam

Major John B. Cullen, Executive Officer at Tobyhanna Signal Depot, was the second speaker at the meeting. His topic was Vietnam. Major Cullen served in Vietnam from April, 1957 to March, 1958.

He outlined the geography of Vietnam with the northern section controlled by the Communists. Living conditions and disease are such that the average life expectancy is about 37, he said.

Water must be boiled and strained, frozen vegetables and meat must be sent into the country. Lumber, rubber, tea and rice are the principal products and there is virtually no industry, he said.

The people, however, are very courageous. Major Cullen reported, and all men enter military service as soon as they become of age. The presence of American personnel in Vietnam is to help put south Vietnamese on their feet and teach them the best ways of fighting of invaders.

Saigon, the capital, he described as a beautiful Oriental city with 90 per cent of the people speaking French. The French influence is felt in the automobiles they drive as well. The temperature ranges from 90 to 95 degrees, often going much higher, he said.

Major Cullen exhibited straw hats worn by the people of Vietnam and showed examples of their weaving.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Peggy Krummel, program chairman.

Mrs. Stephanie Manhart presided at the business meeting. She reported on the fine arts meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Eileen Wolfe and announced that the American Legion is asking for blood donors for September 22.

Mrs. Marian Scheim announced that the Pre-School Center will hold registration on Tuesday afternoon, September 15, and Wednesday night, September 16 at the Barrett YMCA.

A card party will be held during the latter part of October.

Mrs. Terry Megargle was chairman of the refreshment committee with Mrs. Helen Miller and Mrs. Jackie Moffett assisting.

The executive board will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Peggy Krummel, Seese Hill.

Mrs. Charles Henry Quinzi

Quinzi-Young Wedding At Historic Hamilton Church

The Christ Church, Hamilton Square, Mother Church of the Evangelical Lutheran and German Reformed Churches in Monroe County, was the setting on August 29, at 1:30 o'clock for the wedding of Miss Lois Jean Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Andrew Young, of Stroudsburg, who became the bride of stephanotis.

Miss Rita Panigal, of Pittsburgh, her maid of honor, wore a pink net, six-tiered, floor length gown with matching gloves and veil. Her crown was accented by iridescent sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses with pink carnations.

The brother of the bridegroom, Joseph Peter Quinzi Jr., was the best man. The ushers included: Russell LaBar, cousin of the bride, and Frank Panigal, brother of the maid of honor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a nylon chiffon gown with long sleeves coming to a point over the hand. The scalloped neckline was trimmed with iridescent sequins; and her full skirt flowed into a chapel train. She wore a headpiece of a crown sprinkled with iridescent sequins, trimmed with pearls and a fingertip veil trimmed with pearls and iridescent sequins, matching the design on crown and neckline. The traditional pearls encircled her neck. A white prayer book was carried, adorned with a white orchid and first prize winner in a political quiz conducted by Mrs. James Kitzon, program chairman.

Mrs. Jeannette Batory, candidate for register and recorder, invited members of the council, their friends and the general public to be her guests for coffee at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on October 3 at 10:15 a. m.

Mrs. Rake announced that Mrs. Ann Travis was a candidate for councilman in the fourth ward, East Stroudsburg. The meeting closed with tea.

Indian Summer Festival At Arlington School

An Indian Summer Festival will be held Friday night from 7 to 11 at the Arlington Heights School, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Assn. for the benefit of the playground fund.

There will be booths, pony rides and a square dance, to the music of Virgo Singer and his Seldonaire of Bangor. Stroudsburg Local of the Federation of Musicians.

No admission will be charged. There will be fish pond, parcel post, baked goods, games of skill, novelties, profile sketches, homemade goods and refreshment booths. The public is invited.

Just Between Us —

—by Bobby Westbrook

I may not have an ear for music, but in the counterpoint of conversation yesterday I detected a change in tone, rhythm and key. All along Main Street for the first time in many a moon, the symphony of voices was pitched in a lower key, set to a definite rhythm, and the melody was a familiar one.

"Homework on the first day . . ." "Out later this year . . ." "I'll have to stop for graph paper and . . ." "Have to get home in time to get supper started . . ." "With no program chairman, we've really . . ."

People not only sounded different, they looked different. Familiar, of course, after the summer streetsful of strangers, but also neater. New shoes and clean, clean white socks, and skirts instead of Bermudas for the youngsters; starched dresses, heels and new hair-do's for their mothers.

Even the news on Family Fare changed with the calendar of events waxing fat, and the telephone calls coming in on a crisper note, and the church circles starting to revolve, the first PTA festival ready to begin, community meetings, rummage sales and lodge meetings.

The editorial office thinned out with reporters off to cover scheduled meetings instead of unscheduled traffic accidents.

Only one thing kept the symphony of Fall from swinging into march time — Summer's legacy of heat and humidity, which had everybody straggling and a little out of step with the times.

Moyer-Smith

Miss Helen Colon

Spanish Girl To Be Bride Of James Seese In Sept.

Miss Helen Colon, of Miami, Florida, and James O. Seese, of Bushkill, will be married on Saturday night, September 19, 1959, in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church. Rev. Harold C. Eaton will perform the ceremony.

Miss Colon was born in Spain and is employed as a dental assistant in Coral Gables.

Mr. Seese is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Seese, of Bushkill. He is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. He is employed by the McAllister Hotel in Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Seese will make their home in Miami after spending their honeymoon here in Pennsylvania.

Halterman-Harrison Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harrison of 476 King St., East Stroudsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dolores, to Paul Halterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Halterman of Woodland, on August 22 at the Woodland Union Church.

Rev. Justin Feltham performed the ceremony. The newlyweds are now making their home at 706 Fulmer Ave., Stroudsburg.

Shower Held For Saturday's Bride-To-Be

Miss Gwen Peckman and Roger Strouse will be married this Saturday at 2 p.m. in the East Stroudsburg Grace Lutheran Church by Rev. William F. Wunder. Friends are invited to the ceremony.

A miscellaneous shower was held recently in honor of the young couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brauer, Bushkill.

A picnic supper was served. The centerpiece was a large three-tiered cake topped by a little doll dressed for a shower, complete with umbrella. The cake had been baked and decorated by Roger's mother, Mrs. Jean Strouse.

Friends attending were Mrs. Dorothy Custard, Mrs. Jean Heller, Mrs. Mary Bumgarner, Mrs. Carolyn Chase, Mrs. Beulah Chase, Mrs. Bea Chase, Mrs. Patti Heckman, Mr. and Mrs. John Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Strouse, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Peckman, Mrs. Gary Peckman and Sandy.

Also invited were Mrs. Grace Bosman and Linda and Joyce, Mrs. Mary A. Heeter, Mrs. Catherine Warner, Mrs. Willita Rogalski, Mrs. William Rogalski, Miss Amy Peters, Mrs. Bessie MacDonald, Mrs. Sonia Chase, Mrs. Pat Smith and Miss Sandy Bumgarner.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store" A.B. Wyckoff STROUDSBURG, PA.

And away we go! Not referring to the Jackie Gleason show, which is no longer on TV, but to our Wyckoff buses which are endlessly on the highway. Two trips are scheduled . . . and because you may wish to be part of the fun and excitement, we'll invite you to visit our Shoe Department today and buy your tickets.

First of the trips will take our excursionists to the Ice Capades on Saturday, September 19th, at Madison Square Garden. According to New York critics this is probably the finest ice show ever to be presented in America. As one critic put it, every ice show has plenty of skill . . . this one also has plenty of charm. Those of us who saw Ed Sullivan's program Sunday evening, will verify the fact that it is exciting . . . different . . . and beautifully costumed. The glitter and glamour of the apparel and settings were evident even in black and white.

Some time ago when the Ice Follies was showing in New York, I had the privilege of interviewing Dick Dwyer, who is acclaimed as one of today's outstanding skaters. He told me that one of the most difficult of all feats on ice is spinning, and that he had never been quite satisfied with his own. Spinning takes a skater, he believes, with perhaps a heavier build than his, and shorter legs. Dick himself is tall and slender. I was thinking of this when I watched the young man spinning on the Sullivan show—also in the news reel at the movies. I didn't catch his name, but he is truly a whirling dervish . . . a top that makes more revolutions per minute than those absolutely sensational brushes in our Hoover cleaners and polishers!

But enough talking about the show itself. The bus leaves DLW station in East Stroudsburg at 10:20 a.m., and the Wyckoff store at 10:30. The price of $2.25 includes an excellent reserved seat for the matinee as well as fare to and from New York. Tickets are limited in number, so reserve yours today if you wish to attend.

Our second trip is scheduled for Thursday, September 24, with the Allentown Fair as its destination. The bus will leave DLW station at 9:50, and the front of Wyckoff's at 10 a.m. It will leave Allentown for home at 8 p.m. Fare is 2.50.

If these trips aren't long enough to please you, call our travel bureau and ask Edna Brockman about her plans to visit the South Seas and Hawaii soon after 1960 arrives. You can travel light there . . . grass skirts don't weigh very much at all.

Republican Women Plan To Entertain Region Here

The Monroe Council of Republican Women who will be hosts at a northeast regional meeting and luncheon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on September 17 discussed plans for their part in the proceedings at the meeting held yesterday at the hotel.

Mrs. Foster Minnich, general chairman, announced that the meeting will begin with registration and coffee at 9 a. m. Luncheon reservations for local members are in charge of Mrs. H. C. Cryder and Mrs. William Gorman and must be in by Monday.

Mrs. W. Adolph Rake, president, announced a state essay contest on "Why I Am A Republican" with the 150 word essays to be in Harrisburg on October 12 with three prizes to be awarded.

Back To School Breakfasts Hold Key To Good Looks, Good Sports, Good Marks

Things are beginning to hum in households across the land. More early morning activities means there's a movement under way to get schoolgoers to school. And since we know that children . . . teenagers . . . and everyone for that matter . . . do better with breakfast, make sure they start off with a good one.

Scientific Studies Show

There's no substitute for a good breakfast. It is difficult for young people to make up at other meals the food missed at breakfast. Many studies show, too, that those who eat well before school are more likely to star in sports, classes and other activities.

Most of us know that a good breakfast should include fruit, eggs or cereal, and milk. But much to often it contains too many calories from starches, fats, and sweets and not enough protein from milk, meat, and eggs.

Protein is important because it is a necessary vital part of every cell and muscle in the body. It is needed for growth of the young and for well-being of adults. Strength, vitality, and general well-being are dependent on the protein we eat.

During the teen years as boys and girls they can use more food. In fact, you might say teenagers have man-sized appetites. A teenage girl needs as much or more protein as does an adult man who works at a desk all day. And the teenage boy needs even more—as much as a man who does hard physical work all day.

Some Pointers To Teenagers You inherit your body build from your ancestors but the shape it takes depends a great deal on the food you eat. You can build a better figure with a good diet during your teens.

If it is important for you to look your best and feel your best, keep in mind that a balanced diet with plenty of protein will help you to . . .

Develop well controlled muscles for dancing and sports.

Have more pep and energy for fun.

Get rid of that slouch and have better posture.

Have clear skin and stronger teeth.

Eggs, Meat, Fish, Cereal, Milk, and Cheese furnish body building protein, minerals, and vitamins. One or more of these foods should be on the breakfast menu.

For The Teenager Who Thinks For Himself And would like to try something different. There's nothing wrong in having:

A grilled cheese or peanut butter sandwich for breakfast.

A hurry up milkshake breakfast made with orange juice, egg and milk or a banana egg-nog.

Ice cream and fruit on cereal. On a cold morning, creamed beef, tuna, or chicken on toasted shredded wheat biscuits.

Or a hot soup made creamy with milk.

For The Woman Who Has An Eye On The Budget Breakfast can be inexpensive so when you shop remember that:

Whole grain and enriched cereals are bargains in food value. Uncooked cereals are especially good buys.

The shell color of eggs doesn't affect the food value, so choose the less expensive. Use Grade B for scrambling or cooking.

Use evaporated and non fat dry milk for cooking; fresh skim milk when watching weight. These forms are as nutritious but less expensive.

Fruit in season is usually a good buy. Check cost per serving of fresh, frozen, or canned.

Day old bread and rolls are good for toasting.

Food Marketing Trends Food merchandising reverts to more regular family living patterns now that summer's last holiday has passed. Greater emphasis in fresh meat this week will be on beef, pork and lamb roasts. While fresh meat prices advanced slightly at wholesale it is not expected that retail prices will be higher.

There is still ample livestock supplies available. Pork, by virtue of wide ranging prices, probably warrants the top consumer value this week.

Some shortages of top quality large sized eggs are reported.

Stocks Outpace Inflation

By William A. Doyle
International Investment Analyst

Q. Common stocks are usually considered a fairly good hedge against inflation. But how did the owners of common stocks make out in Germany during the post-World War I and post-World War II periods when the value of the mark (the German national currency) was ruined by inflation?

William A. Doyle, man of letters, actually outpaced the effects of inflation during the periods you mention. Many other common stocks didn't do as well. And still others became worthless as war-born, runaway inflation played havoc with the German economy and forced companies out of business.

Holders of fixed income securities such as bonds, of course, really took a financial clobbering as the value of the mark plunged.

Q. I own 25 shares of American Telephone & Telegraph, 20 shares of Brooklyn Union Gas and 32 shares of Columbia Gas. I am still several years away from retirement.

A friend of mine suggests that I sell my AT&T and buy a stock with greater potential of growing in value, such as Eastman Kodak. He also says that, when I retire, I should consider selling the Eastman Kodak and buying back the AT&T.

What is your opinion of this move?

A. In theory, it's a good plan. The stocks you now hold are all proven income producers. Brooklyn Union Gas and Columbia Gas are also gradual growth situations. AT&T has always been considered just about the highest quality stock in the country.

But, until its recent three-for-one split and increased dividend payout, it wasn't in the growth category.

Eastman Kodak is a high-grade stock and is counted as one that will have better-than-average growth in value. If you want to build up your capital in the years you have left before retirement, a switch from AT&T to Eastman Kodak makes sense. And a move back into a higher dividend producer, come retirement time, would also be wise.

But when you buy into growth situations you also take on added risk. You will have to decide whether or not you want to do that.

And, while AT&T isn't expected to show the same growth pattern as Eastman

Kodak, many people in financial circles feel that it won't stand still. Now that the AT&T dividend payout has been increased, further increases aren't out of the question.

Q. What is meant when someone says a certain stock is "like an iceberg?" I realize that only a small part of an iceberg shows above water. Does "like an iceberg" mean that a stock has a great amount of hidden value?

A. There's a lot of weird language used in Wall Street. But this is a new one. As far as I can find out, it must have come out of somebody's private vocabulary. It might mean just what you say. It might also mean frozen in value, melting or drifting away.

Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his letter. He cannot answer phone queries.

Gloxinias Rated Among Best Plants For Home Growing

GLOXINIAS—Here's one of the best house plants we have. They seem to bloom any time of the year. Some tubers need a rest period, others don't. Sometimes individual bulbs refuse to rest and send up a new shoot before the old plant dies down.

This shouldn't bother you because the plant can have its rest period skipped. It'll do just as well as if the tuber had rested. Normally, when bloom is over, you can give gloxinias a rest, by withholding water.

When the leaves die down shake out the soil and transplant the tubers into new pots with fresh soil so that they'll be ready to grow again. While the bulb is resting you can put it in a dark basement, with the soil dry. When the bulb is ready to resume growth you'll notice a small shoot starting.

The simplest way to start gloxinias is to take leaf cuttings and place them in water. Cut the leaves close to the plant stem, then place the stem in water, keeping the furry part of the leaf dry.

Cuttings will root in three or four weeks and form a tiny tuber on the cut end. You can also slip the leaves in sand or vermiculite or perlite. Some feel that the best time to take gloxinia cuttings is when the plant is in bloom.

You can also grow gloxinias from seed, but it takes longer to get flowering plants. Allow seven to 10 months from sowing to bloom. The easiest way to start new plants is to

Question Box

S. F. R. of Stroudsburg: "I received some red African violets from your neighbors. Please tell me how to care for them."

The plants you have are Episcias, called "red African violets." Actually there is no such thing as a red flowered violet.

Episcias are in the same family as African violets and Gloxinias, and have just about the same cultural requirements. They are climbers but rather trailers, growing in cascades from tall plant stands or in hanging baskets, similar to fuchsias. With their copper, bronze, platinum and emerald colored foliage they are quite striking.

Episcias (pronounced e-pisk-ay-a, epy-neo-a, or e-pis-a-a (the latter I prefer) need the same potting soil mixture as do violets, and you can feed them bi-weekly with a balanced liquid plant food.

They do not like direct sun, although a bright window is ideal. High humidity and dampness favor the plant and some gardeners provide this by placing one pot inside another larger pot which has been lined with damp sphagnum moss.

As for water, it should be room temperature and you can apply it from top or bottom. Episcias are not as fussy about getting water on their leaves, as African violets. I've seen episcias grown on top of indoor plant boxes, with no effort to keep water off the leaves.

To propagate episcias, simply insert leaves in water, sand or

Banks Authorized, Not Ordered, To Raise Rates For Interest By One-Half Percent

STATE commercial and savings banks may raise their interest rates by one-half of one percent, effective Oct. 1, but the increase is not mandatory.

The State Banking Department Tuesday authorized the hike in rates. The authorization does not amount to an order to raise the percentage.

Robert L. Myers Jr., secretary of banking, said the new maximum will be three percent a year on time deposits and savings accounts in commercial banks and three and one-half percent a year on deposits in savings banks.

The present limits are two and one-half percent for commercial banks and three percent for savings banks.

The savings bank provision also allows three and one-half percent maximum interest for employee's mutual bank associations.

The boost does not affect federal banks, which recently boosted their commercial interest rates to three percent.

Offense Biggest Problem Of Eastburg High's Kist

FINDING an offense to go with his veteran-dotted forward wall is the biggest problem facing head East Stroudsburg High football coach Jack Kist these days.

With just a little over two weeks of pre-season drills under his belt, Kist has junked one attack and set up a new version of his "T" in an attempt to put more jive in the Cavaliers forward movement this fall.

Kist, along with assistants Del Davis, Doug Schoonover and Jerry Fritz have changed the blocking assignments of the team to a more easier method in hopes that Cavalier grid hopefuls will catch on quicker.

"This is the slowest start we have had in seven years," the veteran Cavaliers mentor said.

"We looked only fair in two scrimmages against Easton and Emmaus. And the reason for this was that the boys reacted too slow on their assignments," he pointed out.

"Naturally we had to do something about it. The result appears gratifying now as the boys seem to like the change," Kist remarked.

Ladle Leads
Led by tackle and captain, Foster Ladlee, the Cavaliers went through two-day drills the past couple of weeks. Yesterday they started their after-school session at East Stroudsburg Memorial Stadium.

Kist has nine lettermen forming the nucleus of the 1959 Eastburg eleven. They are Ladlee, ends Ray Uhl and Bob Herman, tackle Bill Hillman, guard, and Denny Patti, center Bill Shuppe and backs Vic Aylgin, Joe Steele and Pete Treible.

Inexperienced backs is the chief woe of Kist. Only Aylgin at fullback, Treible at half and periodically Herman at quarterback saw any amount of offensive service last year. However, last season's freshman hopeful Harold Myers who saw some action before injuries curtailed his duty will be one back Kist will count a lot on.

Newcomers Shine
Eastburg has several newcomers to the varsity who appear ready to step into a variety role. Included in the group are Mike Boushell, tackle guard; Joe Patrizio, defensive back; Earl Palmer and Jack Van Horn, ends; and Jimmy Steele, one of the better tacklers on the Cavalier's team.

The current Cavalier roster has Uhl, John Sandstrom, Herman and Hillman—ends; Hillman, Ladlee, Patella and Bud Stann—tackles; Patella, Earl Metzgar, Patti, Bob Houck—guards; Jack Feldman, Bob Smith, Herman—quarterbacks; Treible, Mike Puzio, Myers and Brian Farris—halfbacks; Steele, Aylgin and Dave Harmon, fullbacks.

Kist will carry a varsity squad of 33 out of the 52 which first joined the team.

Grid Casualty

STONING, Conn. (AP)—The University of Connecticut had its first football casualty of the season Wednesday—the coach. Head Coach Bob Ingalls put his squad through a one-hour scrimmage, and wasn't quite satisfied with a pass play. In showing the team how he wanted the play handled, Ingalls jumped, tossed the ball. He suffered a charley horse in the left leg when he landed.

LV Kennel Club Show Saturday

THE Lehigh Valley Kennel Club today announced details of its 31st point show and annual obedience trial which will be held Saturday at Community Park, Emmaus.

A record total of 785 entries are listed for the club's golden anniversary affair.

The show will open at 9 a.m. The best in breed selection is expected at 4:30 p.m.

The Schipperke Club of America will hold a specialty show in conjunction with the LVKC event in the former Pine Tree Park which is off Routes 29 and 100, about six miles south of Allentown.

Four divisions will be held in junior showmanship. Judges in the breed competition will be L. E. Achenbach, Hershey; Mrs. Corinne Cameron, Allen, Princeton, N.J.; W. Chalmers Burns, Ridgefield, Conn.; William C. Chaisson, Havertown; Walter H. Chute, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Winifred E. Crabtree, Plainfield, N. J.

Also, W. F. Gilroy, Pittston; Thomas Keator, Carversville, Bucks County; James B. Mills, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Margaret E. Pearsall, Holbrook, N. Y.; Percy Roberts, Norton Heights, Conn.; Alva Rosenberg, New York City; Mrs. Evelyn L. Stein, Bernardsville, N. J.; and Walter H. Weinacker, Short Hills, N. J.

Rosenberg will pick the top dog in breed after the club has distributed record prizes in classes and groups.

The obedience trial also will set a mark for prizes. It offers $550 in cash and 119 trophies.

Leonard Laudenslager, Allentown, is chairman of the bench show. Mrs. Fred Franks, Allentown, is obedience chairman.

Viewing Screens

RHONDA FLEMING and Lionel Hampton have been added to the Red Skeleton spec over CBS Friday, Oct. 9, joining previously announced Burl Ives, Tommy Sands, James Arness and David Rose's orchestra. "The Thin Man," mystery series starring Peter Lawford and Phyllis Kirk, becomes a Monday-through Friday afternoon feature on NBC beginning Sept. 21.

Peter Lind Hayes and wife Mary Healy, have been signed for the romantic leads in the television of "Miracle on 34th Street," to be aired on NBC Friday, Nov. 27, starring Ed Wynn. . . Teresa Wright stars in the Sept. 23 "U. S. Steel Hour" drama on CBS.

Cecil Kellaway stars on "The Playhouse" drama at 7:30 to-night on ch. 2 and 10 as a newcomer to a village who changes its entire personality when he launches a paper that publishes only good news.

Guy Williams stars as "Zorro" at 8 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7, and is alarmed when he finds that Tornado the jet black horse he rides, has disappeared from his secret stable and is found by Uncle Estevan, who intends to enter it in a race.

Debuting at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 4 will be "Staccato," starring John Casavetes as a jazz pianist turned detective. In this initial episode, Johnny Staccato comes to the aid of a young singer who is being blackmailed by a scandal magazine. . . Cameron Mitchell stars as a frontier doctor who endures a beating rather than reveal the identity of a robbery suspect whom he has treated for a gunshot wound on "Dick Powell's Zane Grey Theatre" at 9 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10.

"Playhouse 90" at 9:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10 presents a repeat of William Faulkner's "Old Man," with Sterling Hayden and Geraldine Page.

The story concerns some convicts who are released from prison to help fight a Mississippi flood. Two of them are sent to rescue a stranded woman. One sees his chance to escape, but the other feels morally bound to carry out the work and return to prison.

MRS. GEORGE Greenwood with her daughter, Helen, and son, George Jr., of Bethlehem, were recent guests here. Miss Helen remained with her grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Greenwood, over the weekend. She left Monday for Binghamton where she will visit her cousins, the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Grant Reed.

Mrs. James Mackes of White Haven; Mrs. Elmer Moore, of Thornhurst; and Mrs. Emory Geitz attended the funeral of their cousin, Mrs. Elsie Learn, of Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Paul Eaddy and granddaughter, Linda, who have been visiting the Kalmoskys and Posts for several weeks returned to their home in Flushing, N. Y.

Miss Josephine Blakeslee, of Philadelphia, was a recent guest of Mrs. Grace Bush.

Beverly Keiper Agnes Sipple, Ellen Klock and Rodney Waltz are busy soliciting for members to join the Blakeslee Community Assn.

The monthly meeting of the Methodist Church will be held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. George Kerick, of Stroudsville.

The turkey supper served by the WSCS proved to be a financial success.

Senate Okays New Judge

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's appointment of Harold K. Wood for a judge in the United States District Court for Eastern Pennsylvania was unanimously approved Wednesday by the Senate in a voice vote.

Wood, 53, U.S. attorney in Philadelphia since 1957, and a former Chester County, Pa., district attorney, was nominated by the President last March 2, to succeed Judge William H. Kirkpatrick who retired.

Wood is scheduled to be sworn in Sept. 18.

Seven Alarm Fire Burns

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A seven alarm fire destroyed a four-story manufacturing building and heavily damaged an adjoining marine supply firm Wednesday on the waterfront near center city.

The blaze flared in a shredding machine in the first building, housing a foam rubber and cushion company, and rapidly spread through the plant.

Destroyed within two hours was the Mort's De Luxe Foam Rubber and Cushion Co. The Ellisha Webb and Son Co., Inc., marine supply house was heavily damaged by the flames that threatened for a time to spread to other buildings.

Wind Gap Youth Joins Marine Corps

ANOTHER area man has enlisted in the Marine Corps according to S/Sgt. Joe Butatz, local Marine Recruiter in Easton. Sidney G. Straut, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney F. Straut, Wind Gap RD 1, was appointed to the rank of private and is currently undergoing basic training at Parris Island, S.C.

Pvt. Straut was assigned to the same training platoon as his buddies under the Marine Corps guarantee system "The Buddy Plan."

He is a 1959 graduate of Pen Argyl High School.

Reds Issue Warning

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Defense Ministry organ Red Star warned Latin America that it may suffer nuclear bombardment if war broke out between East and West.

Kresgeville Woman Dies At Age 99

KRESGEVILLE — One more year and Mrs. Sabilla Jane Schaffer, Kresgeville, would have reached the century mark. She died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Christman, of Star Route. She was the widow of George Schaffer.

She was the daughter of the late Flavius and Arlinda Romig Williams of Kresgeville. The 99-year-old great-great-grandmother of nine was a member of Jerusalem Reformed Church of Trachsville.

Survivors
Surviving are three daughters, Miss Lillian Schaffer of Nazareth R 1; Mrs. Lizzie Christman of Star Route, Kresgeville and Mrs. George Smith of Palmerton R 2; six sons, Emory, Wind Gap; Jerry, Bethlehem; David, Mickleys; Allen, Philadelphia; Perry, Allentown, and Lawrence, Palmerton R 2; 21 grandchildren, 45 great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Jerusalem Reformed Church of Trachsville. Viewing will be 7-9 p. m. tomorrow in the R. M. James Funeral Home, 661 Delaware Ave., Palmerton.
